Hi John,

The banking sector is constantly evolving. Customers have higher expectations, regulations are increasingly strict, processes regularly need to be streamlined, and maintenance is costly...

A Lean Core philosophy for perpetual evolution!

This new architecture adopts a domain-based approach while decoupling products from transactional and customer data.

Next-generation platforms leverage this philosophy to create connections through APIs and strategize ecosystems to scale faster.

In this article, check out the evolution of Core Banking Architecture.

Have a great day.
