James. R. Clendon was a British citizen and bus reported, to Washington D.C., any significant political developments related to New Zealand. According to Ian Wards, N.Z. Government Historian (1946-1968) and Chief Historian (1968-1983), a number of individuals were instrumental in creating the final English draft wording of The Treaty of Waitangi on the 3rd-4th of February 1840. Their combined efforts resulted in the final English draft document, which was handed to Rev. Henry Williams at 4pm on the 4th of February, for translation into the Maori language. The "Treaty" writing/ advising participants were, including those named by Wards: William Hobson (Lieutenant Governor), James Busby (British Resident), J.S. It appears that no consideration has been given to matawaka, when tracing pedigree of the dead sides of the treaty. By comparative analysis we can ascertain who owned a particular brand of paper and trace the movements of that brand back to the locations where they kept their paper stocks.

Even on microfilm copies of Clewson's Coaster despatches, the W Tucker 1833 watermark is clearly discernible. The top half of the above, two part picture shows the faint outline of the W Tucker 1833 watermark. The bottom half indicates how it sits and appears on the same page. Clewson is the only individual in New Zealand known to be using this unique paper stock in February 1840, which points conclusively to him being the owner of the paper upon which the Lindisfarne Treaty was written. This watermark evidence further supports historian Ian Ward's statement that Clewson was present when the English draft writing was worked out. Healy, quite obviously, worked it at Clewson's premises, where Clewson kept his personal supply of paper. It seems unlikely that Clewson would have carried the paper to another venue. Either way, it was his paper stock.

CHAP. V.] SOVEREIGNTY OF NEW ZEALAND. 11

Tahiti and New Caledonia in the Pacific, since this period, tends to confirm the accuracy of the above rumour.*

Another curious circumstance revived uneasiness on this subject. On the 10th March 1840, a highly favourable despatch was received from Colonel Wakefield. This drew public attention to some papers relating to Captain Hobson's appointment, already laid before parliament; and several influential London merchants were surprised to find the ministers had not ordered that officer to proclaim her Majesty's sovereignty over New Zealand. Without delay, one hundred and fifteen bankers, merchants, and traders of London called a public meeting at Guildhall on the 15th April 1840, to consider the subject, and from this assembly petitions were sent to both Houses of Parliament, praying them to annex the New Zealand islands, "the Britain of the South," to her Majesty's dominions. This led to the appointment of a select committee of the House of Commons to collect evidence on the question, and it was then ascertained that Captain Cook took possession of the islands in the name of King George III., in 1769, and that when New South Wales was declared a portion of the British dominions in 1787, these islands, although not named, were within the proclaimed boundaries as much as Norfolk Island; but that certain acts had occurred since these events which prevented the Queen of England assuming the sovereignty; these were King William IV. having addressed the New Zealanders as an independent people in 1833, and having recognised their national flag in 1834.† ↑

Over the years, New Zealand historians have written voluminously about the New Zealand Company's first organised settlements at Port Nicholson, New Plymouth, Nelson, and elsewhere. Auckland's first organised settlement at Cornwallis beside the Manukau, on the other hand, has never been much more than a mere unregarded footnote attached to our nation's story. Understandably so, perhaps. It never amounted to much. This small community of Scots perched on the rugged, heavily bushed shoreline near Puponga Point, which juts out from the north shore of the Manukau harbour, seemed doomed from the outset, certainly from the moment that Governor Hobson decided some time during 1840 to place his capital on the northern side of the isthmus. The new capital which he created quickly became the port of entry to northern New Zealand. It was unthinkable that the shallow Manukau harbour with its treacherous sandbars could ever have been a serious rival to the Waitemata. But that was far less obvious in the later 1830s than it is to us today. We have to remember that, at that time, most of the Maori people in the region that we now call Auckland lived beside the Manukau. It seemed feasible, therefore, that the shore of the Manukau harbour could also provide the site of an organised white township. This was the hope, anyway, of the New Zealand and Manukau Land Company sponsored in Edinburgh in 1838 by a group of Scottish landed gentry."

The Manukau Company developed as an offshoot of the much better known New Zealand Company. Even when it had a completely separate existence, the Manukau Company showed residual signs of the shared origin of these two colonising bodies. Each aimed to build up a substantial emigration fund from the sale of shares or land; each sold land orders whose 'sections' comprised a holding in the country and one town lot; each required, from those who were to be provided with free or assisted passages, evidence of good character and industrious habits."

The unusual origins of the Manukau scheme are to be found in a book generally regarded as the first historical survey of early New Zealand, A. S. Thomson's The Story of New Zealand.¹ Published in 1859, this book provided what Thomson claimed to be 'the secret history of this abortive Manukau settlement'. He maintained that his version was based on information provided by an unnamed settler, a 'gentleman' who (according to the author)

WRIT OF EXECUTION, DEMOLITION AND POSSESSION ORDER Sept. 10, 1974

WRIT OF EXECUTION, DEMOLITION AND POSSESSION ORDER

For resolution is the urgent Motion for issuance of WRIT OF EXECUTION, POSSESSION AND DEMOLITION ORDER, filed by the Intervenor, Mr. Julian M. Tallan, a Judicial Appointed Administrator of the Tallan-Aarp Estate, to enforce the terms beneficiaries and the Intervenor's constitutional rights embodied in February 4, 1972 Judgment with Compromise Agreement and that March 21, 1974 Clarificatory Order in their favor, which are now the subject matter of said Motion in order to enforce the true essence of justice, as they pleaded so long for a period of 12 years court battles.

The Motion, Alleging the necessity to take their most imperative lawful rights over their estate that they had gained by virtue of Land Registration Act 406 and Civil Act 2270, to preserve their interest and correspondingly enforced what was mandated in the said judgment with Compromise Agreement dated February 4, 1972 and March 21, 1974 Clarificatory Order for the legitimate land beneficiaries embodied therein so as not to render void with adverse effect against the Tallan and Aarp Heirs of such judgment.

From Tamaki-makau-rau to Auckland

Over the years, New Zealand historians have written voluminously about the New Zealand Company's first organised settlements at Port Nicholson, New Plymouth, Nelson, and elsewhere. Auckland's first organised settlement at Cornwallis beside the Manukau, on the other hand, has never been much more than a mere unregarded footnote attached to our nation's story. Understandably so, perhaps. It never amounted to much. This small community of Scots perched on the rugged, heavily bushed shoreline near Puponga Point, which juts out from the north shore of the Manukau harbour, seemed doomed from the outset, certainly from the moment that Governor Hobson decided some time during 1840 to place his capital on the northern side of the isthmus. The new capital which he created quickly became the port of entry to northern New Zealand. It was unthinkable that the shallow Manukau harbour with its treacherous sandbars could ever have been a serious rival to the Waitemata. But that was far less obvious in the later 1830s than it is to us today. We have to remember that, at that time, most of the Maori people in the region that we now call Auckland lived beside the Manukau. It seemed feasible, therefore, that the shore of the Manukau harbour could also provide the site of an organised white township. This was the hope, anyway, of the New Zealand and Manukau Land Company sponsored in Edinburgh in 1838 by a group of Scottish landed gentry.¹

The Manukau Company developed as an offshoot of the much better known New Zealand Company. Even when it had a completely separate existence, the Manukau Company showed residual signs of the shared origin of these two colonising bodies. Each aimed to build up a substantial emigration fund from the sale of shares or land; each sold land orders whose 'sections' comprised a holding in the country and one town lot; each required, from those who were to be provided with free or assisted passages, evidence of good character and industrious habits.²

The unusual origins of the Manukau scheme are to be found in a book generally regarded as the first historical survey of early New Zealand, A. S. Thomson's The Story of New Zealand.³ Published in 1859, this book provided what Thomson claimed to be 'the secret history of this abortive Manukau settlement'. He maintained that his version was based on information provided by an unnamed settler, a 'gentleman' who (according to the author)

For Europeans the west coast provided industry in lumber and sawmills. It was found to be an agreeable site for settlement. The first European settler, Thomas Mitchell who was a timber merchant from Sydney, arrived in Manukau Harbour in 1834 and settled near Puponga Point. He entered into negotiations with Chiefs Te Kawau, Kawae and Te Tinana; all three of the Ngati Whatua tribe. On the 11th January, 1836 with the assistance of the Methodist missionary, William White, Thomas Mitchell purchased fifty thousand acres in the area with the right to cut timber. He secured this purchase by Apihai Te Kawau, Kawae and Tinana Ta Tamaki placing their mark on a deed of sale for "a certain portion of Land on the North side of the before named River Manukau, bounded on the West by the sea; on the East by a Boundaries line running North East, from a portion of land known by the name of Otahuhu until it reaches the River Wai te Mata up to its head or source, and from the head of the Wai te Mata, to run a line due West, until it reaches the sea; and on the front and South by the before named River Manukau,"¹⁰¹ which translates to the "whole of the Tamaki isthmus between the Manukau and Tamaki rivers on the south and the Waitemata river on the north and from the Tasman sea to the Hauraki Gulf."¹⁰² The price for this transaction was one thousand pounds of tobacco, one hundred dozen pipes and six muskets. Mitchell built his house and sawmill, reputedly the first in New Zealand, near Mill Bay to process the kauri trees in the area. He planned to sell the lumber in Australia but the operation was not successful. Mitchell drowned shortly after his family joined him, so his wife sold the title to the land holdings for five hundred pounds on the 3rd November, 1838 to a group of mostly Scottish business men. Mrs. Mitchell and her children then returned to Sydney. The entrepreneurs formed a corporation called the New Zealand Manukau and Waitemata Land Company with Captain William Cornwallis Symonds as Agent.¹⁰³ This was to be the first fully organized European settlement in the Manukau area. Here it was intended to found a new town in the future for the Auckland tobacco

Several observations can be made about the ambit of permissible claims to the Tribunal. First, the focus on Crown practices, policies, acts and omissions reflects the historical fact that the Treaty was entered into by Maori and the British Crown, with the intention of establishing an ongoing relationship between them. Second, that Parliament has allowed Maori to make claims relating to laws is a highly unusual in-road into parliamentary sovereignty, and underscores the Treaty's status as the founding document of the modern nation state of New Zealand. As the Tribunal stated in its report on the Kaituna River claim in 1984:

This is a remarkable result. From being a 'simple nullity' the Treaty of Waitangi has become a document of importance approaching the status of a constitutional document so far as Maoris are concerned. It is not truly a constitutional instrument because conflict between an Act of Parliament or Regulation and the Treaty does not render the statute null and void. But it does expose the Crown to the risk of a claim that the statute in question is in conflict with the Treaty and to that extent it would seem prudent for those responsible for legislation to recognise the danger inherent in drafting statutes or regulations without measuring such instruments against the principles in the Treaty.³⁰

Third, the Tribunal is able to inquire into matters that in most cases are non-justiciable before the ordinary courts. The main reason for this is that claims are founded on a document – the Treaty of Waitangi – that has the status of an international treaty, which the courts cannot enforce unless it is specifically incor-

This is a sketch of the original design chosen by a gathering of Māori chiefs at Waitangi on 20 March 1834 to be New Zealand's flag. It was actually one used by the Church Missionary Society, but it is known as the United Tribes' flag after this group of chiefs. The flag contained a red St George's cross on a white background, with a smaller St George's cross bordered with black on a blue background in the upper quarter. A white eight-pointed star was located in each quarter of the smaller cross. Slightly different versions of this flag were subsequently (and mistakenly) used, but this is the original United Tribes' flag. It was replaced as New Zealand's flag by the Union Jack when the Treaty of Waitangi was signed in 1840.

1.8 Barry Dewes came onto the Lotini Point area in 1949 from Waipori. He has noted that when he first went to Lotini Point he did not know about wahi tapu. "As mine went on and I found my first skull, I learnt a lot of things." Barry Dewes has experienced personal tragedy in relation to wahi tapu and shown they have affected family members. Eventually, to enable him to use his land, Barry Dewes brought in a tohunga to protect all the sacred places.

1.9 Claimants have noted that others have not been so careful to observe tikanga and the right practice. It is reported that during the building of the Lotini Point Motel, the pakahi owners concreted over a burial site there and built the motel on top.

1.10 The recording of archaeological sites in such density in the Lotini Point and Matakeke District has led to unexpected results for local Maori land owners. The recorded sites feature as part of the Gisborne District Council's Heritage Protection Plan. Claimants report that the Council has adopted archaeological site recording without consultation with local people. This has led to some odd results as is illustrated by Marakira-Smith, the owner-occupier of Wharekahika AS who, when working to have a house established on her land, was informed by the Council that she could not do so as there was a significant site on her land and Council practice was to not allow building within 50 metres of recorded sites. The recorded site was actually a kumara pit not regarded by local people as wahi tapu. Marakira was required to go to her kaitiaki with a request that he inform the Council of this fact. Although the matter was resolved, and the house site was confirmed, for Marakira, this experience was wrong, where an outside agency such as the Council assumed the role of promoting cultural sites in a way that called tangata whenua landowners - the kaitiaki of these sites - into account.

Wolfgang is lying when he states that he sent me his status report because I was mentioned in it. Wolfgang is sending me documentation because the Board of Governors of the World Bank and IMF administer the assets in the Global Debt Facility under paragraph 6 of the Bilateral Minesfield Breakthrough Successor Agreement, which governs.

Without authentication, Wolfgang has nothing. [at the end is a recent tweet about how the Philippines Government and Courts are part of the Banking Cartel - this is another argument showing that Marcos and Rizal knew what they were doing when they put paragraph 11 (on page 3 of this tweet) in the Bilateral Minesfield Breakthrough Successor Agreement, stating that courts have no jurisdiction]

Dear Karen,

You know very well that I prefer writing on email to any other form of communication. The reason is obvious. I can be clear, it can be read and reread again and again, and my arguments stand the call of time against anybody's arguments. I sent you the status report because I was mentioning you.

Risking to repeat the obvious, I say it again and again: You cannot or you just refuse to listen to me and I am not even your husband. As you don't listen to me you have to miss all my arguments, especially those important arguments relating to the person and the life of Dr. Jose P. Rizal also known as (a.k.a.) Fr. Jose Antonio Diaz de la Paz (in the Vatican from 1900 to 1962), code name JPM or JAD, the last surviving son of Prince Julian McLeod Tallano, therefore also a Tallano.

And I have another Tallano for you or better two. Hitler and Yamashita, the two sons of Dr. Jose P. Rizal who in reality was Jose Antonio McLeod Diaz Tallano. Now listen to me, you who want to know real true world history: Adolf Hitler was buried 87 years old in June 1975 in the cemetery of San Luis University in Baguio, Northern Philippines, where he had lived for the last 20 years of his life. Attending the simple little ceremony were the father, Dr. Jose P. Rizal (114 years old), half-brother Tomiyuki Yamashita (87 also), USA President Ronald Reagan, and Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos. Excuses came from the Queen of England and Jacob Vontobel, the two surviving children of Tomiyuki Yamashita and the Queen Mother, thereby niece and nephew of AH.

These should be earth-shaking news for you and for the world. Say it is not true and I am wrong. In 10 years or 100 years the world will know that I was right and Karen Hudes remained stubbornly wrong. Such is life. Don't worry, be happy.

Why are you sending me this report? For some reason my email is not permitting me to write unhindered, so please disregard formatting errors. Jose Rizal's parentage was well known. I have no need for other names to tell. The rest of what you are writing is an attempt for me to enable you to steal the world's assets in the Global Debt Facility. I am not going to do this.

Dear Karen,

Now we are talking. May I cautiously tender the idea that the Bilateral Agreement of August 11, 1950 was valid (freezing all moneys) for 50 years plus 5 until maturity 2005. It was not renewed or prolonged, so by all legal means it expires and allows code name TVM-LSM-666 to take over the reigns alone. No other claims can be made from the Bilateral. It's over. I attach Order of the BSP stating that following the Order of the Court of Pasay only TVM-LSM-666 shall be authorized to move, remove, or transact the assets (SKR of 1983).

I happen to believe that the issue of Global Debt Facility is also over. World Bank and IMF which were created by Dr. Jose P. Rizal in 1941 are instruments of power in the hands and by the powers that be (you know how I use to call them). All numbers are fictitious as they do not have access to the gold which is with us and with us alone.

You and I with our combined legal minds should go back to the Tallano Case, Land Registration Case No. 3957-P of the Regional Trial Court of Pasay City which is part of Metro Manila. That famous decision 1972-02-04 Agana Decision With Compromise Agreement | Natural And Legal Rights | Property

2-02-04 Agana Decision With Compromise Agreement | Natural And Legal Rig...

DEC. OF THE PHILIPPINE COURT OF FIRST INSTANCE OF Pasay City

This decision had Entry of Judgment and became law of the Philippines on June 14, 1972.

Pages 18 - 20 are about 640,000 MT of gold for "the last surviving son of Prince Julian McLeod Tallano". Our research leads us to believe that the said Prince Julian had a one-night stand with a lady Diaz from Diaz in Sorsogon. Both did not want the baby but lady Diaz had a friend in Calamba, on the catholic side (Julian was with the Muslim side).

They apparently offered the right amount and a certain trader Mercado agreed to raise the boy to stardom. That is how Jose P. Rizal started his life as JPM, Jose Protacio Mercado from Calamba. As such he was inscribed in the famous school of Ateneo in Manila when he was 12 years old and a brilliant learner. In latin he learned "REX AL", king of all kings which he knew he was. His peers heard it as Rizal and nicked him Rizal. He used the name in the universities of Madrid, Paris, and Heidelberg where he made is medical doctor (Dr. Med. Jose P. Rizal) 1886 (25 years old) after or while learning German.

You may have another version of true history. Jose Rizal was the true son of his mother and father. But then you have to name names.

Wolfgang

Dear Wolfgang,

No. You are not "in charge" and never were. Perhaps you have forgotten. You did not agree to accept an offer of the Board of Governors of the World Bank and IMF to be authenticated on a transaction-by-transaction basis. Instead, you declined.

As Overseer Mandate Trustee, I am informing you that any claims which you may have had (and based on the language in the Bilateral Minesfield Breakthrough Successor Agreement that courts have no jurisdiction over the assets in the Global Debt Facility it is far from clear that any of your claims were ever valid) have now lapsed after the passage of time.

You asked me to intercede on your behalf with the Board of Governors and authenticate a "deal" to sharply discount the 2 quadrillion dollars of Treaty of Versailles Bonds in the Global Debt Facility, which I declined to do.

You sent me lies about Jose Rizal's ancestry (he was not a foundling, descended from the Tallanos). Jose Rizal was the true son of his mother and father.

I am attaching some old correspondence which I intend to post on the internet.

Sincerely,

I am trying my best but I do not understand a word. I thought I am in charge, with the right partners, of the Global Currency Reset, name it Zim, Dong, INQ, Golden Guns and Golden Bibles etc. But maybe she is. I am waiting to see something.

When I went to sleep last night, I wondered what the following day would bring, after I announced that I would be signing the agreement for the United States in the Global Currency Reset and exchange the Federal Reserve Notes. We have already circulated drafts of these agreements and made similar offers to all the countries of the world:
<https://s3.amazonaws.com/khudes/Alternative-to-WWIII.pdf>

Well, this morning did not disappoint. The goons that regularly break into my house let me know that they were there last night. They stole the stopper in my basement sink; they adjusted the toilet bowl flapper valve so that the toilet would keep on trying to fill the bowl; they left a small ceramic bird in the middle of my kitchen floor.

The gremlins in my PC found me the attached tweet from December 12, 2014 about the dishonest legal profession to show you.

Wolfgang Struck, whose previous efforts to steal the world's assets in the Global Debt Facility were thwarted (here is just one of the many examples in my correspondence files <https://s3.amazonaws.com/khudes/treaty-of-versailles-offer-of-sale-of-2-quadrillions.pdf>), sent me the following email about how there is much more gold than the pundits are claiming. Just to refresh your memories, Wolfgang is claiming that José Rizal was a founding and was not the true child of his parents. After I stated that this was a lie, a person sent me Minutes of the meeting on January 3, 1949 in the Philippines Central Bank where José Rizal made the deposit: <https://s3.amazonaws.com/khudes/Twitter2.4.16.2.pdf>

Wolfgang is trying to claim that a court in the Philippines may decide what to do with the assets in the Global Debt Facility, when the Bilateral Minesfield Breakthrough Successor Agreement, which governs humanity's assets (and these include more than the amounts of gold and other assets that Wolfgang is referring to) states clearly in paragraph 11 that the assets are not subject to the courts. <https://s3.amazonaws.com/khudes/BILATERAL.pdf> The reality is that humanity is going to switch out of the Banking Cartel's paper currencies in a Global Currency Reset. The coalition for the rule of law on the Board of Governors is in charge, and I vote the US' shares on the Board of Governors until the Constitution of 1789 goes back into effect.

Critical thinking is going to be very necessary as you figure out who is still trying to lie to you. Although reality and a positive outcome are pretty likely by now, it is humanity that will decide how to clear out the centuries of corruption (and nobody is going to decide how you want your world to be but you).

The people trying to bring you WWII are fluffing their lines. They are bit actors, and have nothing to do with our reality. http://www.newyorker.com/news/amy-davidson/donald-trump-north-korea-and-the-case-of-the-phantom-annada?mbid=social_twitter

You are correct when you assert that at no time in the last 12,000 years did humans possess or control any energy technology that could mine 2,000,000 metric tons of gold.

You have also correctly identified exactly why the 617,000 metric tons of gold described in the civil case in Branch 111, Regional Trial Court, Pasay City which was docketed as Land Registration Court (LRC)/Civil Case No. 997-P, (which through a motion by the Solicitor General of the Government of the Republic of the Philippines, was consolidated into LRC/Civil Case No. 3957-P in July 14, 1964), cannot be acknowledged to exist, since it is physically impossible for this amount of gold to have been mined by modern humans.

The nice thing about gold bars is they just sit there, whether for 600 years, or 600,000 years.

Keep an eye on Antarctica.

Hi _____,

In response to that proof of dunno, I have this to say: Do not talk loud about things you do not know. So far, you have second hand information and that is false news. And do not say things like that about Karen Hudes.

Come to Manila and look at the SOFITEL PHILIPPINE PLAZA HOTEL, a very nice 5-star hotel by the bay, Manila Bay. Since 1974, there is a deposit of 172,000 MT of gold hidden under the swimming pool, reburied from Yamashita Treasure by Marcos.

All the while all books in Germany claim that no more than 168,000 MT of gold were ever mined in the world since the beginning of mankind (mankind is quite stupid, you know, especially the German side, they even believe in the holocaust but know nothing about it).

Marcos brought 617,500 MT out of the Vatican in the year 1949, whereof 150,000 MT are with DBS in Singapore, 50,000 MT with WestPac in Melbourne (45,000 MT of those in Port Moresby, 10,000 MT with Citibank in

Dear Vicky and colleagues,

In another, albeit long delayed, reaction to your e-mail almost a year ago, I would like to come back to that same issue, the attached (again) document dated February 28, 1969, "69-2-28 FNCB Chase", which you could not find at the time. Together, we might be able to find something this time.

Several things have changed since then. The person Floro E. Garcia, living incommunicado in Queson City, has separated from me his authorized representative upon his own wish. He wants to be the owner of everything and I wish him luck in all his endeavors. I continue to represent "Rev. Dr. Floro E. Garcia" the still undiscovered last pseudonym of the late Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos. I do that in my role as the authorized representative of the court-appointed administrator in the Tallano case of the Pasay City Court LRC CIVIL CASE 3957-P (attached "Letter of Intent"). The Fourth Writ of Execution of the original "Decision with Compromise Agreement of February 4, 1972" gives me the right to pursue, claim, withdraw, and confiscate any and all accounts and gold deposits in the name of Ferdinand Marcos or his predecessor Jose Antonio Diaz a.k.a. Severino Garcia Sta. Romana (attached page 1383 of the records in the Court of Appeals). My rights would extend to the International Court of Justice.

In my new role as self-appointed legal successor of "Tiburcio Villamor Marcos, Sole owner/Signatory" I am trying to understand, if not fully, the thinking of "the old man", Jose Antonio Diaz being the one person entrusted with all the gold of the Royal Families after WWII and his brilliant lawyer Ferdinand Marcos who later became Philippine President and arguably the best ever at that. Both Diaz and Marcos never considered the wealth of the nations as their personal property, so nobody claiming to come after them should do what many false claimants do, claim to be the owner and seller of the gold for example.

Instead, I would claim to be sort of legal successor to both of them and their aliases "being one and the same person" in a judicial body best described as corporation sole or parsonage (The King is dead, long live the King). Everybody in this world is welcome to show me better documents than the documents I have in my possession. I claim that the gold entrusted by the Royal Families of Europe and the Vatican to Diaz and Marcos is more than 600,000MT and I claim to know where that gold is today. Further I claim to know and to hold evidence that Diaz and Marcos had all deposits and accounts registered, albeit CLOAKED FOR SECRECY, with the BIS, the Bank for International Settlements, Basle, with the Office of the Governor of the Federal Reserve System, with the World Bank, the IMF, the UN, and the US Treasury with guarantee that the secret code name of the successor TVM-LSM-666 would be preserved.

Now, on a smaller scale, I have met Atty. Lucas V. Sugui in his office as head of the Legal Department of the Mayor of the City of Manila Room No. 214 second floor in the City Hall of Manila. He has a separate law office and his secretary
